LETTER OF SUPPORT

BUDAPEST, June 10.—(P)—A leading Hungarian communist said today that a letter had been found from Dean Acheson, former U. S. undersecretary of state, "promising support" to former premier Ferenc Nagy, whom the communists have accused of plotting to overthrow the republic.

Szabadsag said the "resistance certificate" of nearly 200 persons, including government and church officials, would be reviewed by a special committee under the prime minister's office.

Among those facing loss of these certificates—which indicate that the holders opposed the Germans during the war—were Dezso Sulyok, head of the freedom party whose newspaper recently was banned; Assembly Speaker Dela Varga, a member of the smallholders party; and Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, Roman Catholic primate of Hungary.

Others facing possible loss of their lands if the committee should decide they did not work against the Nazis, Uzabadsag said, were Lajos Shvoy, Catholic bishop of Szekesfehervar; Count Geza Teleki, former minister of education; and Bela Padanyi-Gulyas, head of the smallholder party's political committee.

At the same time, the Hungarian peoples' court announced

13-Year-Old Girl Has 7-pound Baby

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 10.—(P)—A seven-pound, 10-ounce boy was born at Salvation Army Hospital here to a girl whose birth certificate showed she will not be 14 years old until September 13.

The baby, born Sunday, is "the picture of health, and the mother is doing fine," attendants at the hospital said.

Major Ward declined to disclose the names of the 13-year-old mother or her 18-year-old husband.

Motorist Killed By Hitch-Hiker

MEDIA, Pa., June 10.—(P)—A 23-year-old motorist was shot to death at the wheel of his fast-moving automobile, and a police official declared early today a hitch-hiker would be formally charged with the slaying.

Fred Jack, chief of Delaware County Detectives, said that a man he identified as Daniel P. Taranow, 21, New York City had admitted orally that he shot Francis Devon, 23, of Oxford, Pa., because Devon refused to surrender the car.

Carpenter Is New President Of Chamber of Commerce

Belford Carpenter is the new president of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce. He was elected at Monday night's meeting in the chamber offices when the new board sat in on the last meeting of the old board.

Gilbert Crouse was chosen first vice-president, O. W. Landrum, second vice-president and Floyd Mitchell, treasurer. During this election, T. Harold Craig was made temporary chairman.

These new officers will not assume their duties until July 1, so they took no active part in the regular business session of the board. The first meeting of the new group will be July 14, however, elections were held at this meeting to enable the officers to begin their duties immediately on July 1.

Denton, who conducted his last meeting as president of the old board, expressed his thanks to the members for their support during his term of office and said that he had enjoyed his stay in office.

The retiring board members who were present were Denton, Alfred Weatherly, J. Roush Bur-

Chiropractor Is Grilled On Death of Girl

COLUMBUS, June 10.—(P)—Funeral services were arranged at Lancaster today for Miss Mabel Hoffman, 20, as police here continued investigation of her death which, Coroner John B. Gravis said, followed an abortion operation.

Capt. Glenn L. Hoffman, head of the detective bureau, said that Alfred A. Taylor, 67-year-old chiropractor, was questioned by homicide detectives yesterday "about whether or not he was contacted by a companion of the dead girl to make arrangements to perform an illegal abortion."

Taylor is now free under $5,000 bond pending an appeal to the second district court of appeals of a recent conviction of an illegal abortion charge. He disclaimed any personal knowledge of the case.

Police announced that Miss Speheth Izetta Simpson, 56, of Greenville, who had been held as a material witness, was released yesterday afternoon.

Miss Simpson and Mrs. Ruth Hammond, 29, of Mt. Vernon, sister of the dead girl, were held by police following discovery of the girl's body in a Columbus hotel room Friday. Mrs. Hammond was released Saturday.

Occupation Money Inquiry Is Demanded

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(P)—Three Republican Senators called today for a full-scale investigation into reports that the United States has redeemed millions of dollars worth of German occupation money printed by Russian authorities.

The three lawmakers—Bridges of New Hampshire, Ferguson of Michigan and Knowland of California—told a reporter in separate interviews that they understand the plates of print the German marks were given to the Russians by American officials.

Among other uses for the occupation money was to pay allied troops.

Earlier reports have said that the Russian soldiers—drawing large amounts of back pay—paid fabulous black market prices to American GIs for such items as wrist watches and trinkets.

The GIs, in turn converted the occupation marks into dollars.

The trade became so brisk that American authorities resorted to several methods for discouraging the marks-to-dollars conversion.

Finally a script system was devised to replace the occupation currency.

A war department statement on April 21, prompted by reports that the loss to the treasury on these black market dealings might exceed $500,000,000, acknowledged that the army has accumulated a surplus of German currency.

"The present holdings do not, however, exceed future contemplated expenditures," the statement said, adding:

"A complete report on the acquisition and disposal of these holdings is presently being prepared for the information of the appropriate committees of Congress."

No such report has come to light on Capitol Hill.

ton, Albert Bryant and Damon Baker, Byron Layman was not able to be present because of his wife's illness. Old board members who will continue in office are Carpenter, Bob Terhune, Howard Wright, Ray Brandenberg, Harold McCord, Craig, Crouse and Frank Jean. Newly elected board members present were Floyd Mitchell, Arch Newbrey, O. W. Landrum, Don Gibson, Charles Hire and Ora Middleton.

During the business meeting, the board decided to close the chamber offices all day Saturday through June, July and August.

The board also decided to issue a warning to the public concerning the out-of-town roofing and siding salesmen who have been making door to door solicitation for their products. They pointed out that these salesmen use high pressure tactics which should be regarded cautiously. They also stressed that such door-to-door solicitations are a violation of a city ordinance and any householder bothered by these men should contact the police immediately.

'Down Payment' For Vet Bonus Started on Way

Rural Zoning Bill Approved by House Is Passed by Senate

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS, June 10.—(P)—The Ohio Senate acted today to complete the administration's $30,000,000 annual local government aid program while the House tackled three bills to regulate labor.

The labor bills were brought out for a vote after House Republicans caucused last night in their only action as the session's final week of work got under way.

Ninety-one party members reportedly voted almost three to one in support of a measure by Rep. William Van Aken (R-Cuyahoga) to check-rein unions, and a proposal by Rep. Charles H. Veech (R-Putnam) to ban the "closed shop." Twenty-seven were listed absent.

The caucus did not vote on a third bill to ban strikes by all public employees, including school teachers. Sponsored by Sen. David McFerguson (R-Gurnsey), it already has passed the Senate.

The Veech resolution, in the form of a constitutional amendment requires final approval by voters.

The local government program would increase sales tax distributions from $21,000,000 last year to $27,250,000 this year, and allow cities to tax amusement admissions after Oct. 1.

In 1948, counties would get $12,000,000 in sales taxes and $13,000,000 from state collected levies on deposits and shares of financial institutions, which the state now keeps.

Veteran Bonus

The Senate shortly after midnight received from its finance committee the general appropriations bill carrying about $546,500,000 for the biennium, including $25,000,000 as a "down payment" for veterans' bonuses.

The measure as approved by the House called for spending $585,000,000 in 1947-48, including $75,000,000 as a bonus "starter."

The Senate Finance Committee included in the proposed appropriations $83,500,000 for school aid financing, the pared figure approved by the House a few days ago.

As approved originally by the Senate, and advocated by the powerful school lobby, school aid called for $89,000,000. The revised House version now is in conference committee.

The school aid figure will be revised by the senate tax committee after the conference decision is announced.

After deleting $50,000,000 for bonuses, the senate committee restored about $11,000,000 cut

Ohio Liquor Board Chairman Dies

CINCINNATI, June 10.—(P)—William F. Hess, chairman of the Ohio Board of Liquor Control, died about 8:45 A.M. today of a heart ailment. He would have been 75 years old June 17.

He was named a member of the liquor board in 1929 by Gov. John W. Bricker and was named its chairman early this year by Gov. Thomas J. Herbert.

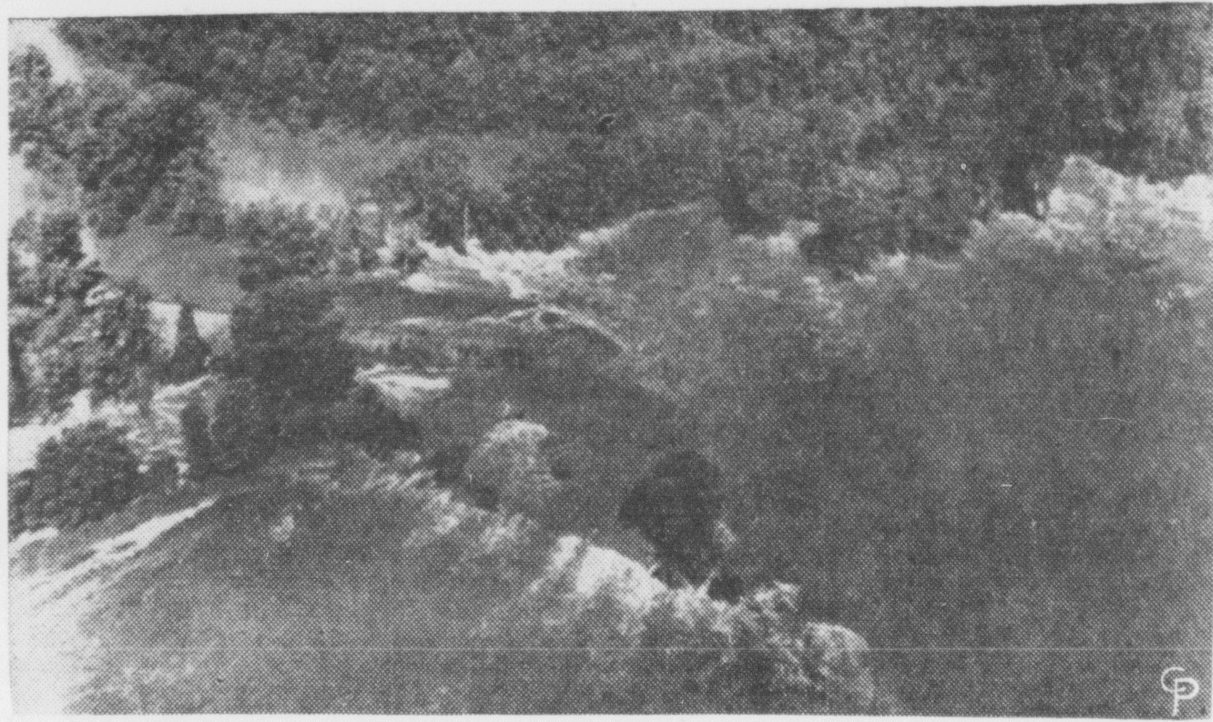

Hess had been in poor health for some time but was not confined to his bed until about two weeks ago. His condition grew steadily worse, reaching the critical stage last Wednesday when his son, Rep. William E. Hess, Republican congressman for this district, was called home from Washington.

The elder Hess, a lifelong resident of Cincinnati, was active in Republican party activities since early manhood.

Wife Is Indicted For Fire-Murder

BECKLEY, W. Va., June 10.—(P)—Mrs. Virgie Harper of Glen White was indicted yesterday on murder and arson charges in connection with the death of her husband who was found shot to death in their burning home.

State Police Sgt. A. Scallise said Mrs. Harper admitted shooting her husband, a mine foreman, on April 28 after he beat her. His body was found four days later by firemen called to put out a blaze in the Harper home.

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

Hal Boyle, whose column "Of Human Interest" is brought to the readers of the Record-Herald every day, has been cited for outstanding war reporting by America's Gold Star Mothers in convention at Long Beach, Calif.

Boyle's daily stories from the battlefronts have been carried in the Record-Herald since early in the war. One of the ace Associated Press correspondents, he returned to this country after the war and became a sort of roving reporter for the AP.

Bypassing that is known as "spot news" by the craft, Boyle's column now is concerned more with events of human interest, unusual people and places.

His stories were so warmly received by the reading public that he was assigned by the A. P. to write a daily column. It is carried on page three of the Record-Herald every day. There is hardly an Associated Press newspaper in the country that does not give it top play among the features.

"The fact that he was christened Harold but everyone who knows him calls him 'Hal,' is perhaps the keynote to Hal Boyle's popularity both among the officers and men—and his myriad of readers," read the citation presented to Boyle by the Gold Star Mothers.

"Hal Boyle's war reporting for the Associated Press from North Africa and Sicily was an inspiration to millions. He wrote down-to-earth articles that carried his readers into the tight places he went with the men.

"He and the Associated Press are to be congratulated on doing an outstanding job that helped us at home to do our job."

Boyle, in response, told the mothers of the men and women who died in the service:

"It was a privilege to write about your boys, many of whom I knew. I am sorry they are gone."

Similar citations were awarded to Frank Bartholomew, United Press, and Lee Van Atta, International News Service.

Protest Strikes By Miners Spread

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 10.—(P)—Work stoppages among soft coal miners protesting labor legislation before Congress spread to 20 mines employing 11,204 men today as AFL-United Workers officials pondered their strategy in the idleness they termed "unauthorized."

The stoppages were scattered through the three counties that comprise the heart of an extremely rich southwestern Pennsylvania bituminous section — Fayette, Greene and Washington.

Two mines voted to resume work after being idle over the weekend. They were the Gates mine of the H. C. Frick Coke Co., employing 400, and the Kyle mine of the same company employing 600. They account for a combined daily production of 5,600 tons.

Among the closed mines was the world's largest, the famed Robena mine of the Frick Company which employs 1,800 miners and has a normal daily production of 10,000 tons. Some of the other larger pits affected range from 2,000 tons to 7,000 tons in output.

Without exception, all of the larger mines are "active" pits—those mines whose production goes to steel plants and never sees the open market.

Flooded Midwest Lashed by Wind

Damage Heavy, Thousands Homeless As Rain-choked Streams Spread

OMAHA, June 10.—(P)—A severe windstorm slashing northeastward across Nebraska into Iowa last night left two known dead, two injured and a trail of heavy property damage.

Accompanying the rains, unofficially reported as heavy as four inches in northend of northeastern Nebraska's Elkhorn River valley, raised fears of new flooding in an area which suffered extensive inundation only last week.

A 13-year-old boy was reported killed when a barn was blown over near St. Edward.

Near Akron, Ia., north of Sioux City, Hugh Smith was reported killed and his brother, Da., injured when a twister struck their farm.

An 85-mile an hour gale struck Sioux City, disrupting telephone and electric service and breaking the anemometer at the Sioux City weather bureau. Four planes broke loose from their moorings at the Sioux City air base.

FLOODS IN MIDWEST
HANNIBAL, Mo., June 10.—(P)—Floodwaters pouring into the Mississippi River, which already have made more than 20,000 homeless and have inundated nearly 50,000 acres of farm land, in eastern Missouri and west-central Illinois, appeared today to have reached a high point.

Rivermen and U. S. engineers expressed belief that only further rains would aggravate the situation, but they also said that several river towns in Illinois and Missouri still faced serious flood conditions, despite the promise of receding waters.

U. S. army engineers and the coast guard had every available worker on the job in the flood area and the American Red Cross had 50 staff workers and about 600 volunteers aiding the homeless.

Water was eight to ten feet deep in the village of Alexandria, Mo., near the Iowa line, the result of a levee break, and all residents have been evacuated.

In Hannibal, a city of 20,000, the water covered nine blocks of the town's main street. Four thousand residents of South Hannibal were partially isolated. No buses were operating and at least a dozen stores were flooded.

At Canton, Mo., 30 miles upstream, the river had reached a stage of 19.92 feet, an all time high. Although half of the town is under water and a third of the 3300 residents are homeless, relief work was reported well in hand. No trains or buses are operating out of the town and only one highway is open.

A river land district levee, two miles north of Louisiana, broke yesterday, flooding 3,000 acres. Sixty families in Louisiana were evacuated.

At Quincy, Ill., where the Mississippi is rising, the water was reported to be about 10 feet deep in some places. The official report followed closely a similar report by semi-official sources. Until today the ministry of national defense had suppressed a stream of excited cables to local newspapers by their Chinese correspondents in Sinkiang reporting details.

Central News Agency reported in a dispatch from Tihua that "bitter fighting" was continuing between native Sinkiang troops and invading forces.

Americans Attend Buckingham Party

LONDON, June 10.—(P)—King George and Queen Elizabeth entertained 5,000 guests—including more than 100 Americans—today at Buckingham Palace's second presentation party of the year.

The event was held on a sunlit expanse of grass as smooth as an oversize putting green.

The Americans, all but a few of them members of the U. S. Embassy staff in London, were among the first to be greeted by the Royal Family, and a vast, admiring circle looked on as the top-hatted men in their bows and the filmy-frocked women their abbreviated curtseys.

Ancient Car Draws Big Crowd Here; Not Many Ever Saw Anything Like It

Why should an ancient automobile draw a crowd faster than almost anything else in this sophisticated world?

There may not be any satisfactory answer to that one, but the fact remains that when Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Gault of Lorain pulled up in their 1911 Oldsmobile touring car, first at the Barnhart Station, corner of North and Market Streets, and then in front of the Try-Me Taxi office across the street from the Record-Herald on South Fayette Street Monday afternoon, it was surrounded by gaping men and women and boys and girls almost before it had come to a stop.

The Gaults were on their way to Greenfield to show the old car to Mr. and Mrs. Dean Waddell from whom they bought it for $300 about four years ago. The Waddells did not know they were coming, the Gaults said.

It may have been just happenstance, that Andy Garringer is the manager of the Barnhart Station which sells Firestone tires and that the old car was equipped with special made-to-measure Firestone tires. Anyway, Andy was the only person in Washington C. H. who got a ride in the antique.

Earl McCoy, of the Record-Herald advertising staff, recognized the old car at first glance. When he heard Gault say he was headed for Greenfield, McCoy asked: "That looks just like the car Dean Waddell used to have."

"Why, I'd bet it's the same car. I've ridden in it many a time."

The old car was a shining beauty—although many in the crowd that gathered around it here, or stared wide-eyed as they watched it go down the street, never saw anything like it except, perhaps, in the old picture books. The old motor purred along smoothly without ever missing or skipping a beat.

The curious got a good chance to look it over here, too. For the Gaults left it parked in front of the Try-Me Taxi office while they went to get a little belated lunch.

It Could Be Helpful

An idea is now being urged that may bear fruit in better relationship in negotiations between capital and labor.

A proposal by a prominent business man who heads one of the great commercial and merchandising companies of the nation shows some sensible possibilities. He suggests that management and labor cooperate to send 1000 young men and women to college for a year. He has offered $100,000 toward establishing a fund of a million dollars for this purpose. He suggests that organized labor select 500 candidates, and management also 500, to be furloughed on full pay for a special course in labor relations. The million dollars would help colleges provide the best instruction and research facilities and would defray tuition and incidental expenses of the students. It is presumed that the instruction would be along practical lines.

It would be expected that the unions and management would choose young folks who, in the coming years, are in line to deal with one another, on the two sides of the contract fence. They would be taught "the most enlightened methods for making our economy produce a higher standard of living for all."

The curriculum would include methods of increasing productivity and wages; the inter-relationship of wages, prices and profits. It would take up problems connected with the guaranteed wage, in which unions are showing great interest. It would consider the rights of the public, the correlation of management, labor and government, basic principles of labor legislation.

This man adds: "I might suggest a quickie course on 'how to eliminate name-calling' as a prerequisite to labor negotiations."

Even if every one of the 1,000 students selected had at least a bachelor's degree from a good college, he still could learn much from such a course as this.

Labor negotiations derive much of their bitterness from ignorance on both sides. Neither knows what the other is thinking. Neither knows what the other really wants or is prepared to give or take. Neither understands the other's mental processes. Each thinks of the other as a creature from a different world.

The negotiators meet with both sides assuming that there has to be a battle royal that will end, eventually, in compromise. So the union asks for more than it expects, management offers less than it is willing to grant. Both sides feel a bit guilty, so they bolster their prestige by a bit of public name-calling.

Maybe we're wrong, but we don't think this is necessary. We believe that contract negotiations could be placed in the hands of men, on both sides, who not only knew each other by name but who understood each other's problems.

If the men who will negotiate tomorrow's contracts live together, study together, listen to the same lectures, read the same books, there is no reason they can't get together and make enlightened agreements in a spirit of good will.

Name-calling might not disappear. You may call your fraternity brothers as harsh

The Forces of Freedom

It is estimated that there are more men under arms now than shortly before the Second World War. Save in the western hemisphere, there is no real peace anywhere on earth. Violence, disorder, oppression—these are the symbols of the postwar world. And, as inevitably occurs in an age of suspicion and unrest, the liberties of peoples everywhere are being limited and destroyed.

The position of the United States in this dark and dangerous time is clear. We, with a handful of allies, none of whom are economically or militarily powerful, are the last citadel of individual freedom. With few exceptions, the English speaking world alone still maintains and respects the basic rights of man—and even in that world there are ominous signs of weakening. The American government, in its dealing with the other powers, is the leader of the forces of freedom against the forces of darkness and the total state.

The duty of the United States is equally clear. To put it in a phrase, this duty is to maintain our strength. And strength can be divided into two different and distinct classifications. There is military strength—the strength of force. Much as Americans hate war and thought of war, we must maintain this to a reasonable degree, in the interest of self-preservation.

Second and still more vital, there is the kind of inner strength which only a free people can possess. This is the heart and soul of a nation and its institutions. It is a nation's greatest resource in time of trial. And it rests upon the proposition that the rights of the individual are inviolate. So long as we have this, we shall be ready to meet whatever the coming years bring.

Happy days will soon be here for those who count the days till fresh strawberries appear on the market at prices somewhere within telescopic distance of the purse.

Sometimes we sort o' wonder if this world won't end with just a few old men collecting postage stamps.

A Letter from Washington

By Jane Eads

WASHINGTON — More than a million school children, between 14 and 17 years of age, will be seeking vacation-time jobs within the next few weeks, the U. S. Department of Labor estimates.

Jobs for young people won't be as easy to find as they were a year ago. Employers this year can be more choosy with many veterans looking for work. And they tend to prefer more mature workers.

Nevertheless, there'll be jobs for youngsters on farms where seasonal labor is needed. Also during summer months, many employers in city stores and service establishments seek substitutes for regular employees on vacation.

Miss Beatrice McConnell, head of the Child Labor Youth Employment branch, U. S. Department of Labor, believes a vacation job may be a valuable experience for young people above the legal age for employment.

But, unless they have finished high school, she warns, they should plan on going back to school in the fall.

Finding the right job and knowing the ropes on the job is quite a problem for most young people, she says. Tramping the streets and looking for "help wanted" signs isn't all there is to it. They must be wise job hunters.

She first advises them to get an interview with the school counselor, teacher, or principal, then go to the local state employment office and ask to see their counselor.

"Look for the kind of job that is in line with your interest and school experience, and that gives you a chance to get ahead, and that is OK under child labor laws," she says.

"Be wise on the job," she repeats, posing the questions: "Do you know how much pay you are entitled to? What deductions will be made? What are the safety rules? What are your rights under the Workmen's Compensation Act? Are you insured on the job? Do you know whether you are covered by Social Security?"

"Do you know about unemployment compensation if you lose your job? Is there a union where you work? What does the union do for you?"

If you don't know the answers, Miss McConnell suggests you ask your local state employment office, or your school counselor, write to your state department of labor, or the child labor and youth employment branch of the division of labor statistics, U. S.

department of labor, here.

Fibrositis, or Painful Tissues

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE muscles are covered and bound together by fibrous tissues known as fascia and attached to the bones by similar structures called tendons.

Sometimes, especially after exposure to cold, these fibrous tissues may become extremely painful, causing the condition known as fibrositis. Since the affected tissues are especially numerous around the joints, such an attack is quite likely to be mistaken for rheumatism.

Contributing Causes
While we do not know the exact cause of fibrositis, we are sure that cold, sudden chilling, dampness, and changes in the weather can act as the trigger which sets off an attack. Unrecognized injuries may act in the same way. Other possible causes are infections elsewhere in the body as in the teeth, tonsils or sinuses.

According to Dr. William Tegner of London, England, it has also been suggested that fatty tissue in or under fibrous tissue may in some cases become edematous, that is, fluids may collect in the fats. This causes pressure and may lead to fibrositis.

Lower Part of Back
Fibrositis occurs particularly in the lower part of the back, in the buttocks, around the shoulders and the neck. Acute fibrositis comes on suddenly, without any warning symptoms, sometimes after exposure to cold, damp or temperature changes. It may also follow strain and exertion. Pain in the affected area may start on movement, and is relieved by rest and warmth.

In some cases it may be so severe as to incapacitate the patient. The muscles may be tense or contracted. Whole areas of muscles may be very painful when pressed on.

Making a Diagnosis
As a general rule, it is not difficult to make diagnosis of acute fibrositis. However, the condition may be chronic, that is, long continued. In such instances, the pain is less severe but more persistent than in the acute disorder. It is also relieved by rest and warmth, but when the patient gets up and moves about after resting, the pain may be worse than before. The patient also complains of pain and stiffness in getting up in the morning or after resting in a chair. Gradually after more activity, the pain disappears and does not return so long as he moves about.

In treating acute fibrositis, rest, heat, and the giving of pain-relieving drugs are all helpful. Massage particularly may hasten the recovery. Recently the use of injection of pain-relieving preparations or local anesthetic directly into the affected areas has been found of value.

In chronic fibrositis, heat, massage and injections also are helpful. An effort should be made to find and eliminate infection in the teeth, tonsils, sinuses and elsewhere in the body.

Don't look for the flaws as you go through life.

And even when you find them, it is wise and kind to be somewhat blind.

And look for the virtue behind them.

For the cloudiest night has a hint of light.

Somewhere in its shadows hiding, it is better by far to hunt for a star.

Than the spots on the sun abiding.

The current of life runs ever away.

To the bosom of God's great ocean.

Don't set your force 'gainst the river's course.

And think to alter its motion. Don't waste a curse on the universe—

Remember it lived before you. Don't butt at the storm with your puny form.

And bend and let it go o'er you. This world will never adjust itself

To suit your whims to the letter; Some things must go wrong your whole life long.

And the sooner you know it the better.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

PAGE AND Rufus came finally for dinner. Diane had had difficulty in arranging it, for Bill, under Wilbur Morrison's personal tutelage, was edging into politics, which necessitated his going to ward meetings; on the evenings he had free Page said she could not come. The reasons Page had offered were not wholly convincing to Diane and she suspected Page did not want to come.

But for all her persistence in bringing it about, the care she gave to the meal, the cocktails, the candlelight, the lovely arrangement of flowers in the center of the table, it wasn't a merry feast. Some restraint hung palpably over them.

Rufus and Bill started very soon talking of the fall campaign, disagreeing with spirit on certain candidates; Page appeared more inclined to listen to them than to engage in any talk on the side with Diane. Though Diane did not think she really was listening.

Diane found herself slipping into secret thoughts. Of Rufus.

Tonight, with Bill and Page present, he seemed no closer an acquaintance than he had been that first evening he had come here with Page. It was hard to believe they had had "those little intimate talks together, not many, to be sure, but each so somehow important! She had a crazy impulse to break into his, and Bill's discussion, say: 'Rufus, talk to ME!' Claim him.

He looked different. Better groomed, it was. Really amazing, well dressed and not a hair on his head out of line with its fellows! Living up to Page, when it should be she.

"Well, those two don't act so madly in love," laughed Bill, after they had gone. "And Rufus certainly won't get anywhere with Page's father if he goes after Mayor Giddings' favorites!"

"Page is going to New Orleans in February," Diane said indignantly.

"She is, is she? Di, I'll bet anything with you that those two never marry! Page won't hold out against her family!"

Diane pushed a chair back into its usual place with a little violence. "If she really loves him—" she began, then stopped.

"That's a funny thing to say. If she doesn't, why ever did she get into this jam?"

Diane did not want to talk about it. She answered a little impatiently and heedlessly: "Couldn't it be—second choice?"

Bill regarded her with some astonishment. "What do you mean? That she was in love with some other fellow?" Then: "She never gave any hint of it to me! And I think I was more in her confidence than anyone."

Irresistibly Diane laughed, laughed because Bill was so certain of it, but instantly bit her lips on it, furious at herself. For a slow color was coming into Bill's face, a deep embarrassment.

"You've got it all wrong, Di, if that's what you're thinking! Page knew me too well to ever fall in love with me. We've been friends since we were in baby carriages!" He laughed, but with some self-consciousness. "She'd tell you fast enough, that you were all wrong to say anything like that!"

"But I didn't say anything, Bill!"

"You didn't, eh? Well, forget it! Honestly, Di, you were the first girl I ever fell for. I was too busy studying while I was in college and afterwards, getting on with Dean, to think of girls!"

"Wouldn't it be more romantic, darling, if you put it that you were waiting for me to come along?"

Bill switched off the lights of the living room. "It wouldn't have been so. You were just the opposite of the kind of girl I thought I'd marry when I married!"

"And what kind of a girl was that?" Diane teased over her shoulder, as she went into the bedroom.

"Well, I suppose one more like Page! She was the sort I knew—" He saw the expression on Diane's face after, caught her to him, a little roughly. "What are you trying to make me say, Di? I love you! Isn't that romantic enough?"

"It's—sweet, Bill." She kissed him. Laughed in his arms, and Bill laughed.

But, later, from his bed, he spoke again of Page and Rufus. As if he'd been giving it all sober thought. "We don't want to get involved in it. Di, The Winstons are too close friends of my family. And Mrs. Winston called me in that night. If Rufus can't win Page on his own merits he'd better give it up."

"That's probably what he'll do—if he can't," agreed Diane, drawing it to sound sleepy and end this talk.

Her small effort to help Rufus cause plainly had not been a success. It wouldn't lead, as she'd hoped, to the four of them doing things together, making a solid front of alliance for Mrs. Winston to see. Page did not want it so, or Bill, who was reluctant to become involved, maybe Rufus, himself. "And I'm not sure I do, if Rufus is going to seem like a stranger!" She did not try to analyze the little feeling of loss she had.

She did not see either Page or Rufus for several weeks. Then, one day, in Belders', she ran into Page. It was close to one o'clock and she said: "Can't we eat luncheon together?"

Page said quickly: "Sorry, I've more shopping to do and I'm meeting Mother and Aunt Beulah. Aunt Beulah's here for two weeks. Some other day, call me some day."

Diane had seen the withdrawing in Page's manner, the instant they met. She let her go on, went herself to a glove counter, where she bought a pair of gloves abstractedly.

Lois met them when they got out. "You never go anywhere with us or ask any of us in—" she began.

"Just now I never know when Bill will have a free evening."

"Well, Danny'd pick you up, any time! That's quite the thing, nowadays."

Wilma added: "Bruce Ackley's been taking Joan Dexter everywhere, since Dode broke his leg." They'd planned their arguments, Diane knew. They felt sorry for her. But she only laughed: "I'll call on Danny when Bill breaks his leg!"

If you didn't let little things like that in—

Farmers Warned Of Boom in Land

WASHINGTON, June 10—(AP)—

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson cautioned today that farmers and many credit institutions will invite financial disaster unless they join to halt the current land boom.

The cabinet officer urged private lenders to adopt the policy of government agencies and make loans to farm buyers based only on the normal or long term earning capacity of the land.

Anderson's plea was made in a speech prepared for a farm real estate conference called at the direction of President Truman.

Invited were farm organization leaders, officials of govern-

Wedding Vows Are Exchanged On Saturday

On Saturday afternoon as the hands of the clock approached five, Miss Ruth Marian Bloomer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Bloomer, became the bride of Mr. David Keith Galbreath, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Galbreath of Troy.

The double ring service was read by the Reverend George B. Parkin, in Grace Methodist Church, in the presence of the immediate families and close friends, before an altar softly lighted with white tapers in tall five branch candelabra, forming a background for the two tall wicker vases filled with gladioli, delphinium and fern.

Miss Marian Christopher presented a program of organ music preceding the ceremony and included in her selections "Claire De Lune," "De Bussey," "O Promise Me," "DeKoven," "I Love You Truly," "Bond," and the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her white crepe street length frock, sweet heart neckline, and a side drape extending from the shoulder to the hem. Her accessories were all white and she wore a corsage of baby orchids. Her only jewelry was a diamond necklace, the gift of the groom.

Miss Marjorie Canner of Schenectady, New York, attended the bride as maid of honor, wearing a light grey crepe dress, matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Virgil Orr of Troy served the groom as best man.

Mrs. Bloomer chose for her daughter's wedding a skipper blue gabardine suit, with egg-shell accessories, and the groom's mother wore an aqua crepe dress with a bolero jacket, combined with white accessories. Both mothers wore gardenia corsages.

The wedding party and guests motored to Columbus, where a reception and dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Bloomer, in the Blue Room at the Seneca Hotel, using as decorations baskets of gladioli, delphinium and fern.

Later for going away, the bride changed to a melon colored gabardine suit, combined with white accessories and her orchids pinned at her shoulder, completed her ensemble. Their honeymoon will be spent at Lake Lure, in North Carolina, and upon their return they will reside in Oxford.

Mrs. Galbreath is a graduate of Fairview High School, Dayton, attended Miami University, Oxford, for the past two years and the groom, a graduate of Troy High School, spent two years in submarine service in the United States navy, and has just completed his freshman year at Miami University, where he expects to complete his course in business administration.

Couple Wed On Sunday

A quiet open church wedding beautiful in its simplicity, took place in McNair Church, Sunday, June 8, when Miss Betty Robison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robison, of near this city, was united in marriage to Mr. David Phillipian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Phillipian of Delaware.

Reverend John Glenn officiated at the double ring ceremony at one-thirty in the afternoon. The church was decorated with garden flowers and the service was preceded with nuptial music presented by Mrs. Russell Miller, pianist, and Mrs. Alfred Conana, vocalist. Mrs. Conana sang "I Love You Truly," "Always" and "Love's Old Sweet Song."

The bride was dressed in a white suit with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses. Miss Marjorie Robison was her sister's maid of honor, and was wearing a brown frock with yellow accessories and a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

Mr. Moss Ellis of Columbus was best man for the groom.

A small reception was held at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Robison.

Farewell Dinner Honors Pastor

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Grace Methodist Church entertained with a covered dish dinner and farewell get-together Sunday evening at the church, honoring Reverend and Mrs. George B. Parkin, who left Monday for their home in Wilmington. The tables seating the 125 members and guests present, were profusely decorated with summer flowers.

Mr. Ralph R. Penn, in a few well chosen words in behalf of the society and the congregation of the church, expressed regret in the leaving of their former pastor and Mrs. Parkin, and extended congratulations in the new work of superintendent, which he recently accepted.

Many friends from other churches were present. Among them were Reverend McCarty of the First Baptist Church, who spoke in behalf of the Ministerial Association. Mrs. D. D. Weinrich, president of the WSCS, presented the honor guests with a pair of beautiful table lamps. Reverend Parkin responded with deep appreciation.

In closing, all joined hands in the Friendship Circle, to sing "Blest Be The Tie." The remainder of the evening was spent in informal visiting.

First of Handicap Tourney Matches Played Last Week

Weather has been one of the big hazards faced by golfers in the Country Club annual handicap tournament which started June 1. Four matches were played last week with these results:

Don Brandenburg beat R. W. Cline, 2 up.
Bill Williams beat C. S. Sharpstein, 5 up.
Wayne Shobe beat John O'Connor, 6 up.

Darrell Thornton beat Charles Reinke, 5 up.
But there was a lot of other activity on the course, too, as evidenced by the odds and ends jotted down by Tony Capana, the club pro, in his notebook:

Ronnie Cornwell and Kenneth Harley played in the amateur tournament in Columbus Sunday. H. R. Gandert set a record for the most holes played in a single day when he played 48 holes Sunday.

V.F.W. Enters Softball Loop For 8th Team

The Veterans of Foreign Wars today had the eighth place in the City Softball League.

Off to a late start, the sponsors of the team that will take the place of the Washington Candy Co. outfit that withdrew unexpectedly last week were on the spot, so to speak, to get it on the field Wednesday night for a regularly scheduled game with the Armbrust boys.

New Holland's Dutchmen are understood to have been ready to take over if no Washington C. H. team stepped up. A spokesman for the league said "it's too bad the New Holland team couldn't get in. . . they're a good bunch of boys and we'd like to have them play with us."

There was little doubt, however, that the VFW would have a team capable of holding its own in the league race. Organizers of the loop are known to have been disappointed when the VFW did not come in at the start.

Snappy Kate Wins at Troy

Snappy Kate, owned by Frank Junk and Son and trained at the Fairground track here for several years, won the 9-16 mile dash for 2-17 trotters at Troy's harness race meet Monday night.

Driven by Frank Lanum, who had trained her, Snappy Kate covered the distance in 1:12 and paid her mutual backers $7, $5.20 and $3 across the board.

Snappy Kate began her racing career for G. Damon Baker and later was acquired from him by the late Elmer Junk who sold her to his brother and present owner. A temperamental mare but possessed of plenty of speed, Junk said she had been training well this spring and had predicted another successful season for her.

County Band Boosters Meet To Make Plans

Fund Raising Is To Be Pushed All Over County

Mrs. Clark Robinson is chairman of the County Band Boosters committee today, following a meeting Monday of the committee, in the county Board of Education offices at which plans were made for a fund raising campaign to buy uniforms and music for the 90-piece all county band.

The members of this county committee were appointed from the four individual Band Boosters groups at Jeffersonville, Madison Mills, Bloomington and Good Hope. The group was organized several months ago to raise money for the 90-piece all county band, composed of boys and girls from these four high schools.

Mrs. Ruby Fountain was named secretary-treasurer of the group at this meeting. Mrs. Robinson said that no definite goal had been set for the fund-raising campaign, but that they wished to buy uniforms for all members of the band before next fall, in addition to extra instruments and music.

She said that if the band grows as is expected, the members will number over 100. She pointed out that if $30 is needed for each uniform, this brings the needed amount to $3,000, without planning for instruments and music. Reports at the meeting showed that the group has over $700 already, either in the bank or promised. She said that responses have been good and the Band Boosters expect to raise enough to complete their plans.

Some of the plans suggested for raising money were a concession at the fair in July and a street dance with the proceeds going to the band. However, none of the plans have been completed or arranged as yet.

Those present at this meeting were the following: from Jeffersonville, Mrs. Cecil Long, president of the club there, Mrs. Robinson, county representative; from Good Hope, Mrs. Kenneth Craig, president, Mrs. Fountain, county representative and Superintendent Kenneth Craig; from Bloomington, Mrs. Grace Iden, president, Mrs. Howard Foster, county representative, and Superintendent G. H. Biddle; and from Madison Mills, Mrs. H. W. Melvin, president, Mrs. Leland Dorn, county representative, and Superintendent Milford Barker. Rolland Chase, county band director, was also present at the meeting.

Mrs. Robinson said that another meeting will be held on June 23, when a complete financial statement from each of the groups will be given and plans more fully developed. She expressed certainty that the goal would be reached.

Scissors Sisters Hold Meeting Monday

A food sale will be conducted by the Scissors Sisters 4-H Club at the Korn Insurance Agency, it was announced at a meeting of the group Monday at the home of Mrs. John Rowland, leader, and her daughter, Betty.

Food for this sale will be donated by those in the community who are interested in the club. The proceeds will go into the club treasury. Refreshments were served after the meeting and Mrs. Rowland and her son, Neal, presented several musical selections.

The next meeting will be at the home of Marjorie Parks on June 16.

Farms Near Here Are Reported Sold

The sale of two sizeable farms, one near Cook Station and the other out of New Holland, has been announced by Edwin F. Jones.

Jones, a former real estate broker here is now located in Columbus. In his announcement of the sale of the 750-acre tract along the creek near Dogtown, Jones said it once was owned by a cousin of the late President Woodrow Wilson and that the first World War president used to spend part of his summer vacations there when he was a boy.

At the time of the sale, he said, it was owned by Irvin F. Westheimer, a Cincinnati stock and bond broker. The new owner of what is known around New Holland as the Duffield farm was given as Nicholas C. Farber, owner of the Farber Motor Sales Co. of Columbus. A herd of 112 Angus cattle, 129 hogs, 100 sheep, growing crops and the farm implements were included in the deal, Jones said.

Farber, he said, takes immediate possession and Everett McCormick, is to remain on the farm as the manager.

The purchase price was said to have been "in excess of $100,000 for everything."

The 328-acre near Cook Station farm, owned by Dr. William N. Taylor, of Upper Arlington was sold to J. C. Roberts of London, Jones said. Known as the Hugh Campbell farm, the price was said to have been around $44,000.

Dr. Taylor, Jones recalled, was a native of Bloomington, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Taylor. Later he went to Columbus where he now is one of the capital city's prominent surgeons. His father was one of the proprietors of a general store in Bloomington years ago. It was known as the Taylor Brothers Store.

Roberts is to take possession March 1, Jones said.

Junior Sew-It-Is Club Tours Bakery

A tour through the Pennington Bakery Co. plant here was made Monday afternoon by the members of the Junior Sew-It-Is 4-H Club after which a meeting was held at the home of Audrey Scholl.

During the meeting, Phyllis Brush, who attended the 4-H tour to Columbus, gave a talk on some of the demonstrations she had seen. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Sharon Rettig. The next meeting will be June 16 at the home of Ann James.

Graduates Urged To Join Army

Boys who graduated in the high school classes of 1947 were given a message by Sgt. D. S. Neville, army recruiting officer here, who pointed out today that they are the first boys who have graduated since 1940 without being faced with selective service.

He said that "you have an opportunity to prove to the world that the typical American system of voluntary action can keep our nation strong and powerful."

He stressed the advantages of joining the regular army, which offers opportunities for education at government expense, technical training and a chance to travel to interesting foreign countries. The regular army is open to men between 17 and 34, he pointed out. He said the net income of a soldier runs well ahead of the average in civilian life. In addition to a regular monthly pay of $75, the soldier gets free medical and dental care, clothing, housing and food. Also, said Sgt. Neville, no federal income tax is taken out of a soldier's pay.

Sgt. Neville also pointed out that after 20 or 30 years in the regular army, a soldier may retire and receive a life income of $185 a month. Sgt. Neville said that he will be willing to talk to anyone interested in joining the regular army at his office in Memorial Hall.
